CATHERINE KURTZ

PINNED

16 NOVEMBER - 21 DECEMBER 2021
PREVIEW WEEK: 16 - 20 NOVEMBER

The Redfern Gallery are pleased to announce an exhibition of new work by Catherine Kurtz. The title of the exhibition Pinned, is taken from one of three series of paintings, also including Memento Mori and Torn. This body of work represents Kurtz' expression of our universal vulnerability and mortal fragility.

Observing and recording both subject and her own responses, rigorously attending to its every detail, Kurtz invites the viewer to do the same.

“Depicting isolated or juxtaposed objects I am able to explore various preoccupying themes, such as the reductive and skewed attitudes that colour female experience, and ideas around mortality and the fragility of life.”

MEMENTO MORI

The dead forms of birds and other found creatures, force the viewer to confront the brutality of loss, even whilst observing their great beauty. The serenity of death, before decay has set in, is a very tender and mysterious moment; a moment that holds life and death, presence and absence, love and loss.

Pinned is Catherine Kurtz' fourth solo exhibition at The Redfern Gallery. Kurtz completed her art foundation at Wimbledon School of Art before studying Fine Art at Chelsea School of Art under Lucy Jones, Clyde Hopkins, Tony Fry and David Hephher, among others. She also had some illustrious contemporaries: Chris Ofili and Neal Tait in her own year, and Gavin Turk in the year above. Upon graduating, Kurtz was made artist-in-residence at the Royal Ballet School. In addition to her career as an artist, Kurtz is a writer.
